The Emperor's Snub to the Hungarian Premier Unfortunate for the Austrian Government.

Funds to be Raised for Another African Expedition—The Route to be from North to South.

The Rising in Zanzibar—Cetewayo's Death Avenged in the Killing of King Usibep.

(Copyright by the U. P. A.)

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Since the departure of Emperor William, the question whether his visit will not result in lasting injury to the dual empire is being eagerly discussed. It is conceded by a number of Austrian politicians that the young Emperor's snub to Count Von Taafe, Hungarian premier, was an unfortunate circumstance to the Austro-Hungarian government coming, as it did, almost on the heels of the severe rebuke of Emperor Francis Joseph to Dr. Strassmayer, Bishop of Diakovo. The irritation of Emperor Francis Joseph with his great bishop was intelligent enough. Dr. Strassmayer was born in Slavonia, at Essek, on the Drave, in 1815, and early became a devoted advocate of the Croatian national cause. The Bishop had since admitted that he desired "the union of all Serbs, and regretted that the Serbs of Servia had not, like the Croats, adopted the Latin letters. The division of all their habits corresponds to that of their religion. The Croats are simply Catholic Serbs, whereas the subjects of King Milan are orthodox. The Serbs of Bosnia are purely orthodox and partly Mohammedan. From the politicians' point of view it was an ill-chosen time for Dr. Strassmayer to pay compliments to Russia, when for two years the Austro-Hungarian monarchy had been arming to defend itself against the Russians. The politicians also believe that a more inopportune moment could not have been chosen for Emperor William's rebuff to Count Von Taafe, as it will undoubtedly increase the tension between the different races of the dual empire, and greatly strengthen the nationalist movement among the several peoples which has for some time caused serious embarrassment to the government. The Austrian Emperor's subjects are of many races, there are Germans of Austria and the Tyrol, and the German minority of Bohemia, who are

AS BITTER AS ANY ORANGEMEN

against the nationalist movement of the Czects. The Czects, the Moravians and the Poles form one Slavonic group, from which perhaps the Slavacks and Ruthenes must be distinguished. Then Hungary contains, besides the Magyario, a large Roman population, whose eyes are apt to turn towards their kinsmen whose capital is at Bucharest. The national movement in Crotia finds its first enemies in the Magyars, who are the chief and anti-Russian movers in the empire, and this antagonism is of itself likely to rouse the feelings of sympathy with Russia in the breasts of the Croates. The fact is, that the difficulties of Austria are almost insurmountable, and it is a perpetual wonder that she exists at all. The experiment of giving home rule to Hungary, and a wider home rule than has ever been proposed to give to Ireland, has undoubtedly been a success in so far as it has made Hungary a loyal and contented part in the concern; but the circumstances of Austria composed of different races, which are counted by millions, and which occupy great territories, make it very difficult and dangerous to stop on the way to the federation. Bohemia at least will never be fully trustworthy in the hour of danger—in the hour of a great war with Russia—until she gets what Hungary got in 1866. The difficulty lies in the fact that Bohemia has its Ulster in the German population just as Hungary has its Ulster in the Croates. It is pretty certain that Austro-Hungary cannot stand still. The disaffection of her Slavonic subjects, with the eruption of the Galican Poles, is at present so widespread that the empire would not, in all probability, emerge intact from the strain of even a successful war. The offences of which Count Von Taafe was guilty in the eyes of Emperor William was committed about a year ago when succeeded in driving a strong wedge into the theory of a dual empire, by passing a bill for recognition of the Czech language in Bohemia. The Germans of Bohemia loathe the Czechs; the Czechs hate the Germans. It is claimed that Taafe's measure must result sooner or later in the crowning of Francis Joseph under a Czech, alias Prague. Hence the Austrian premier received no decoration at the hands of Emperor William, but received instead a snubbing which is already beginning to have the effect of extending the bitter feeling of the Czech's toward the Germans, and to other nationalities in Austro-Hungary, and consequently weakening the force of the triple alliance in the eyes of Russia. This event, slight as it appeared at first, has caused a flurry among Russian financiers, and is undoubtedly at the bottom of the prediction of a heavy fall in the price of Russian roubles, which is the chief barometer from which the pessimist takes his indications of the approaching storms. The price of roubles during the months of August and September advanced forty per cent. on the prospects of the maintenance of peace, notwithstanding the fact that an Imperial decree for the immediate use of fifteen million roubles was authorized, while this week there were large fluctuations in the price, each day showing a lower figure at the close.

Experienced geographers in London do not take the same confident view of the German expedition for the relief of Emin Pasha which is taken in the Fatherland. Their opinion is that, unless it can be converted into a regular military enterprise, it will not be able to proceed two hundred miles from the coast. According to private letters received in London the interior of German East Africa is simply in

A BLAZE OF REBELLION,

Against the European residents. Besides it is certain that the expedition cannot start as early as was expected, mainly for want of funds. The subscriptions promised are large enough, but nothing can be done until the commander of the expedition has money actually in hand with which he can hire natives for the caravan. The chances are that the German Emin Expedition will fare no better than Major Bartellot's unless it is subsidized by the German government. In spite of the stories of disaster which come from Africa there seem to be no checking the rage for expeditions there. The idea is being seriously entertained in more than one quarter in England of a fresh adventurer cutting the continent either direct from north to south or from south to north. The former route will probably be chosen, provided the necessary funds for such enterprise, which would be considerable, can be supplied. Subscriptions are at present coming in at a rate which promises early success. The chief reason advanced for giving preference to the route from the north to south is that the native members of such an expedition would not be so likely to become disheartened or demoralized by coming in contact with the various tribes if they did not encounter many difficulties at the commencement of the journey, as would be the case if they travelled from south to north. The late Mr. Montague Kerr contemplated an enterprize of this kind, and had he carried it out, would have explored the Lake Chad district on his way south to Cape Colony; but, perhaps, this part of the scheme may also even yet be carried out.

The rising against the Europeans in Zanzibar now extends along the entire coast of the Sultanate from the northern limit of the Portuguese possessions near Cape Delgado to the southern limits of Somaliland. The blacks are allied with Arabs in this rising. The gravity of the rising is greatly increased by the connection of the Arabs with it, and by the extremely in regard to the Stanley expedition. The German and English African explorers, when commenting at the outset on Mr. Stanley's resolve to trust Tippo, pointed out that one guarantee of the Arab trader's loyalty would be the reception he would be likely to meet with at Zanzibar if he behaved treacherously. But Stanley's friend, Sayed Bergash, then Sultan of Zanzibar, is no longer living, and, apart from the many indications that the Zanzibarites are disposed to ignore government responsibilities, it would not be surprising if the Zanzibar authorities felt satisfaction in pleading they cannot be any longer held answerable for disorders in territory which has been taken from them by the Germans. Difficulties of a far-reaching kind may, however, easily arise out of the occurrence reported. Germany may be expected to demand satisfaction for the outrages and may possibly be led to argue that if Zanzibar cannot restrain its subjects, its suzerainty over the coast zone had better be abolished.

Considerable anxiety prevails at the British foreign office over the news from India, Afghanistan and South Africa. The situation is summed up in two little wars in India, at points so distant from each other, as Sikkim and Aback mountains, while Afghanistan is in a foment of rebellion which threatens the supremacy of England's friend and protege, the present Ameer Abdur Rahman.

The last but not least disastrous event to England is the reported killing by the Usutus of King Usibep, another friend and protege of England in Zululand, whereby the capture, imprisonment and death of England's great prisoner Cetewayo is avenged.

MARINE.

Steamship Umatilla left for San Francisco yesterday afternoon.

British bark Argyleshire is 116 days out from London for Victoria.

British ship Mumock is 13 days out from London for Victoria.

Ship J. B. Brown will load East Wellington coal for San Francisco.

British bark Autumn is 140 days out from Maryport, Eng., for Victoria.

British bark Viola, from London, loaded with water pipes for this city, is 163 days out.

Steamships Antonia and Wilmington are loading Wellington coal at Departure Bay.

Schooner Ariel will leave to-morrow for the scene of the wreck of the steamer Cariboo Fly.

Hawaiian bark Emile, formerly known as the bark Arabella, has nearly completed loading Vancouver coal.

Steamship Southern California completed her cargo of Vancouver coal on Friday night and sailed for San Francisco yesterday.

Barkentine Cathona, 67 days from Hongkong, arrived Friday night, with a general cargo of merchandise for Welch, Rithet & Co. She will commence discharging to morrow.

Steamship Sardonyx left yesterday morning at 11 o'clock for the northern canneries. She had as passengers W. H. Dempster, of the Windsor Canning Co.; G. Stapleton, of Inverness; S. A. Spencer, of Albert Bay Canning Co.; Miss Hunt, and 12 others.

On the 6th inst. there were 41 vessels and steamers discharging coal in San Francisco. On the way from all ports there were 82 vessels and steamers. For San Diego on the 6th inst. there were 18 coal vessels on the way, and for Wilmington nine. This does not include in either case the coal from Puget Sound, and it appears that a coal famine is in the far distance.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

A number of Winnipeg excursionists arrived last evening and registered principally at the Clarence.

The Rithet has gone into winter quarters, and is replaced on the Westminster route by the Princess Louise.

Mr. W. Heathorn has purchased the Bay Tannery from the estate of the late W. Magirl. The price paid is said to have been $3,200.

On Friday Mr. George Whitfield, of Nanaimo, was married to Miss M. A. Carlow, of North Park street, Victoria. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Rugg, Baptist minister.

J. Guffola of, Nanaimo, while out driving with his wife and children near Chase River, were upset and thrown down an embankment, all the party being more or less injured.

The C. P. N. Co. having found it impossible to keep the crowd of hackmen, hotel runners, etc., under control, placed their gate at the head of the approach. If the police do not attend to matters better on the street an accident will occur, for the street is often a mass of hacks, the drivers of which take big chances in an endeavor to get first place at the gateway.

The attention of school teachers and school trustees is drawn to the conduct of a number of the older pupils of the central school. They frequently meet youthful Chinamen on the way to and from school and assault them, in some cases inflicting serious injury. The cowardly and hoodlumish actions of these boys should be severely reprimanded by their instructors, and in cases where boys are discovered maltreating defenceless Chinese they should receive condign punishment. To permit such conduct to go uncondemned would simply encourage the boys in hoodlumism.

One of the Proprietors of the Clock Game Case Found Guilty at San Francisco.

The Yellow Fever Situation in Jacksonville---Work of Disenfecting the City.

Failure of a Pittsburg Bank---A Big Lumbering Firm Suspends---Coal Miners' Strike.

The Clock Game Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—Eight jurors were secured to-day to try T. J. Lacy, one of the proprietors of the clock game, and with that number the trial commenced. Lacy was found guilty and recommended to mercy. He will be sentenced on Monday.

The Chinese Cases.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—Judges Sawyer and Hoffman will deliver a written judgment on Monday morning. As the Chinese lawyers have given up hope of a favorable decision, there seems to be little question what the result will be. The lawyers hope, though, that they have enough grounds for an appeal to the U.S. supreme court.

The Fever Record.

JACKSONVILLE, Oct. 13.—Dr. Mitchell, president of the board of health, reports 31 new cases of fever for the 24 hours ending at 6 p.m. to-day. There were only three deaths. Of the new cases six only were whites. Total cases to date, 3,536; total deaths, 311.

Strike of Coal Miners.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 13.—At Blosston, 28 miles south of this city, to-day 2,000 miners employed by the Capaba Coal Mining Company, struck against a proposed reduction of 5c. per ton. The company was paying 50c. per ton for mining and to-day reduced the rate to 45c. The strikers are quiet, and no disturbances are feared.

Fatal Gas Explosion.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 13.—A gas explosion occurred this morning at Darrance shaft, near this city, operated by the Lehigh Valley Coal Co., in which Benjamin McKay, a boy, was fatally burned, and Thomas Benjed, aged 21, and David Reese, aged 17, were seriously scorched.

Occupants of a Carriage Struck by a Train.

SANDWICK, Mass., Oct. 13.—The Boston bound passenger train from the Cape of Old Colony railroad, struck a team near West Cranstable to-night, containing Henry A. Corvelle and wife and Howard M. Lovel and wife, all of Osterville. Corvell was instantly killed; Lovell is dying, and the two ladies received severe injuries. They were conveyed to Boston by special train, but are not expected to live. The party were on their way to attend a grand army post, to which the two gentlemen belonged. Lovell was 46 years of age and Corvell 48.

The Situation in Jacksonville.

JACKSONVILLE, Oct. 13.—The situation is still hopeful. The only alarming feature is the sudden outbreak of fever in South Jacksonville. There are ten cases there. Dr. Porter has agreed to open and maintain a hospital there provided the association will furnish a building and equipments. The question of payment for private property destroyed in the process of general disinfection is causing much discussion. The Government will not reimburse those who are able to stand the loss. It is rumored that some people are secreting their property. Refugees will not be allowed to return to the city until the proposed general disinfection has been completed.

Failure of a Bank.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 13.—The Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of Southside closed its doors this morning. The cause of the suspension is not yet known. The bank has a capital of $130,000.

Lumbermen Fail.

ASHLAND, Wis., Oct. 13.—J. M. Lane & Co., lumbermen at Washburn, assigned yesterday to T. S. Clart, of Grand Rapids, Mich. Lane & Co. took one of the Reed & Maxwell mills and other property a year ago when that firm failed for $30,000.

WEST KOOTENAY MINES.

Progress at Toad Mountain—The Hot Springs Carbonate Camp—New Silver Ledge—Routes to the Mines.

A recent arrival from Hall's camp, Toad mountain, states that the work there is slowly progressing, owing principally to the lack of mining knowledge of those who located the ledges. Hall Bros. have out a carload or more of ore, from which they received good returns. The best way to reach the camp at the present time is via Northern Pacific and the Kootenay river and lake. The trail from the landing on the Columbia river now leads to the camp, but the fact that no saddle horses are kept there makes it inconvenient to the traveler who goes in via Revelstoke. Capt. Ainsworth was looking over the route of the proposed line of railway between Kootenay Lake and Columbia river, and also visited the Hot Springs and other camps on Kootenay lake. He was very much impressed with the recent discoveries of gold and carbonate mines, and left for Chicago to place the scheme before some capitalists.

The camp at which the carbonate ores were discovered, known as the Hot Springs camp, gives promise of good things. A sale of a half interest of one claim was recently made for a $5,000 consideration. If the ore deposits are carbonates in large quantity the camp is sure to become a rich one. There is considerable excitement in reference to it at the present.

Two miles beyond the Hot Springs camp, a silver ledge was recently discovered carrying wire silver. Whether it exists in quantity our informant did not know.

At the Bluebell claim on the eastern side of Kootenay Lake, Dr. Hendryx has been sending out lead ores at the rate of ten tons per week. The result per ton of the shipment is as yet unknown. Unless it is considerable it will not pay to ship, for the cost of 150 miles steamboating and then hauling over a toll road to the Northern Pacific railway is too expensive to admit of profit.

If the C. P. R. would run a branch line from Golden south-west to the head of Kootenay Lake, and a line could readily be constructed, it would give an easy and cheap outlet to the C. P. R. for the ores. Hill's road, which is moving westward from Helena, will likely run a few miles south of the boundary line, will provide cheap facilities for shipment of ores, as navigation is to be had direct to the rails.

A small ledge of free gold has also lately been discovered which is very rich in gold. The quartz is white and the yellow metal glistens all through it. It is but six inches in width.

"C" BATTERY REMAINS.

Sir Adolphe Caron Says there is no Truth in the Rumored Removal of the Battery from Victoria—The Department is Alive to Its Duty in Reference to Barrack Accommodation.

With reference to the rumored removal of "C" Battery from Victoria, on Friday last Lieut.-Col. Prior, M.P., sent the following despatch to Sir Adolphe Caron.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 12th.

To Sir A. P. Caron, M. of M., Ottawa—Rumored here that government is thinking of removing "C" Battery to Vancouver. Great indignation. Meeting called for Saturday night. Wire me if any truth in report.
E. G. PRIOR.

The following reply to the above was received by Col. Prior yesterday:

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 13.

To E. G. Prior—No truth in rumor of removal of "C" Battery from Victoria. Department is alive to its duty in reference to barrack accommodation.

MILLIONAIRE FLOOD'S HEALTH.

His Condition Much Improved and the Dangerous Period of His Illness is Passed.

(Special to THE COLONIST.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—The reported death of Millionaire Flood was premature. A cablegram was received from Germany this morning to the effect that Mr. Flood's condition was much improved, and that his physicians now express the hope that the dangerous period of his recent attack is past.

CAPITAL NOTES.

No Change to be Made in the Location of "C" Battery Barracks.

The C. P. R. Secures Valuable Water Front Land in Toronto for Station Purposes—The Pacific Cable—Contract Let for the Chignecto Marine Railway.

[From our Own Correspondent.]

OTTAWA, Oct. 13.—The Minister of Militia was seen again to-day, and informed your correspondent it had been decided not to make any change in the location of "C" Battery Barracks.

The Canadian Pacific secured authority to-day from the Minister of Railways to expropriate a large quantity of lands on the Toronto water front for a new station.

Sandford Fleming denies the statement of Sir John Pender that the Australian colonies are not in favor of a Pacific cable. He wants all the colonial governments to join in representing to the Imperial Government a speedier termination of the survey than three years.

The promoters of the Chignecto Marine Railway have let the contract for the work, which will probably cost five millions sterling.

CANADA'S DIGNIFIED COURSE.

The Dominion's Policy Sure of Speedy Vindication.

MONTREAL, Oct. 12.—At a dinner given to Herbert S. White, the newly-elected Member of Parliament for Cardwell, last evening, Hon. J. M. Chapleau, Secretary of State, in response to the toast, "The Federal Parliament," said: "Canada is now passing through a crisis calmly, cooly, and wisely. In the United States there is great excitement over their election and politics; but, as the English papers said, Canada has given an example to the world in the cool way she has taken it. The United States tried to frighten her with commercial union, annexation, and unrestricted reciprocity; but she was well before and is better now, and does not wish to change. The diplomacy of the Premier will be vindicated on the 7th of November, whichever party gets in."

While he (Chapleau) did not desire to disparage the United States, he would say that if they were to annex themselves to Canada it would do them good. Movements toward the United States are the only one thing destructive to Canada's industries, and whatever she has striven for during the last ten years.

SUED FOR LIBEL.

Dr. Bergmann Will Bring an Action for Libel Against Dr. Mackenzie.

[Special to THE COLONIST.]

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The Pall Mall Gazette states that Dr. Bergmann, one of the physicians who was in attendance upon the late Emperor Frederick, will bring an action for libel in the English courts against Dr. Mackenzie for statements made by the latter in his book on the case of the Emperor Frederick, reflecting on Dr. Bergmann's ability as a physician. The Gazette also says that Gersardt will probably institute proceedings against Mackenzie.

PERSONAL.

Rev. Dr. Aberigh Mackay is at Roccabella.

S. Fraser Hobson, of Toronto, is visiting Victoria.

H. Landerkin and wife, of Winnipeg, are at the Clarence.

J. L. Beckwith and bride arrived last evening on the Yosemite.

F. X. Martin, one of Vancouver's prosperous merchants, arrived down last night.

E. C. Baker, M. P., arrived from Vancouver yesterday evening on the Yosemite.

Prof. Dawson, literary editor of the Toronto Empire, arrived last evening and is at the Driard.

J. H. Todd, Jas. Crawford, J. B. Lovell and F. A. Pauline arrived down on the Yosemite from Vancouver.

E. Miall, commissioner of inland revenue, and Mrs. Miall, Ottawa, arrived last evening on the Yosemite and are at the Driard.

Lord Ennismore left on the steamship Sardonyx yesterday afternoon for Fort Simpson, where he will spend a few weeks in hunting large game.

C. D. Rand, who has been East for several weeks, arrived down on the Yosemite. Contrary to the expectations of his friends he returned alone.

M. J. Davis, buyer for Jos. Uhllman, of New York, in the Victoria market, leaves to-morrow morning for the East. Mr. Davis will visit the principal cities in Europe before returning in the spring. He is followed by the best wishes of a host of Victoria friends.

We are pleased to learn that the rumor, stating that Mr. John Richards had resigned his situation in the H. B. Co.'s store, has no foundation in fact. Mr. Richards leaves shortly for a trip through California, but his genial face will again be seen where it has been for so many years.

CANADA'S DIVORCE COURT.

New regulations have been published relating to notices and applications for bills of divorce. The rules of the Senate in this matter are, it appears, defective. It is a little surprising that the Senate has been continued as a court of marriage and divorce. It is no reflection on the Senate to say that it is not the proper tribunal in which such cases should be tried. Disputes in which money and other kinds of property are involved must be inquired into by properly established courts, presided over by experienced and learned men, who have made the practice of law the business of their lives; but cases in which the happiness and credit of families are involved are investigated and decided by men who have had no training for the work—many, indeed, of whom are conscientiously opposed in engaging in it at all. It is a reproach to the common sense of Canadians that they allow cases of such importance to be adjudicated upon by the Senate, which is confessedly untitted for the work. Disputes between married people and the dissolution of the married tie should be submitted to a court composed of the most learned and discreet lawyers that can be found in the land. Difficult and delicate questions arise in these cases which it is folly to expect the Senate satisfatorily to decide upon. If they come to a just decision it must be in a great measure by chance. The best way to regulate the proceedings of the Senate in such cases is to regulate it out of existence altogether as a divorce court.

THE CONVENTION'S RESOLUTIONS.

The resolutions passed at the recent Convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union are well worthy of the serious consideration of all who have the well being of the community at heart. Women, whether in the Union or out of it, are better than men. Their influence is very great, and it is well for society that it is so generally used in the cause of whatever is pure and of good report. The formation of the character and habits of children is to a very great extent in their hands, and it is encouraging to find that they are making an organized effort to bring them up in the way they should go. Every one admits that intoxicating drinks are too freely used in every community, and every one deplores the evils which are caused by intemperance. We do not believe that there is one man in a hundred who would object to see his children being brought up on strictly total abstinence principles. We never saw a man yet, no matter how fond he might be of liquor himself, who did not feel grieved when he saw his son begin to drink habitually. The efforts, therefore, of the W. C. T. U. to convince the youth of the Province of the danger of using stimulants deserve the encouragement and co-operation of the public. They should beware, however, of teaching that for truth which cannot be proved to be true—of overstating their case, so to speak. When a boy once finds out that what he has been taught is erroneous, that experience and science do not bear out what he has been taught to believe as the unquestioned and unquestionable truth, he is in danger of rejecting the whole of his early instruction, and concluding that a pious fraud has been practiced upon him. The evils of intemperance are so numerous and so great that exaggeration will not impress those whom a faithful representation fails to move, and the real dangers consequent upon contracting a love for stimulating drinks are surely great enough without conjuring up imaginary ones. Let then the instructions given to children on the subject of the use and abuse of alcoholic liquors be the truth, the whole truth, if you will, but nothing more than the truth. We see a tendency to overstatement in this matter which, as it brings discredit upon what is sad and sober truth, is likely to do much mischief. We are a little surprised that the W.C.T.U. did not have among its resolutions one approving of efforts that may be made in the direction of regulating the sale of strong drink. If it is not practicable to prohibit its use altogether it would surely benefit society to do away with some of the abuses which so many deplore. Would it not be well for all who desire some reform in this direction—total abstainers and others—to agitate for a new liquor law in this province? Everyone knows that saloons are open too late at night, and there is hardly anyone who would not rather see them closed altogether on the Lord's Day. There are many, too, who are by no means teetotallers, who believe that there are too many low dives and unlicensed places in our town and settlement. Would it not be well to raise the license fee so that many of the lowest and worst dens would be frozen out? Would not a law in many of its features like the Crook's Act, that has been found to work so well in Ontario, be equally effective in British Columbia? We think that some such law is required in the province, and that the state of public opinion is now such as would make its enforcement possible. It seems to us that if the ladies, in addition to what they recommend being done in the way of bringing up the boys in the path of sobriety, were to continue their efforts to prepare the way for the passage of a good practical license law, they would do a great deal of good, and would not have long to wait for beneficial results. We trust that they and others will seriously consider this matter.

THE EVANGELIST.

Why is it the people flock to hear Mr. Moody? Men and women who hardly enter a church from one year's end to the other, who seem dead to all religious influences, careless young people who so far as appearances go never give a thought to any serious subject attend the evangelist's services and appear to enjoy them. How is this? If only religiously disposed persons attended his meetings and derived good from them his crowded houses would not be surprising. But the sinners even more than the saints seem to be attracted by his preaching. Persons of all ages and every degree of culture, and very many with no culture at all to speak of, hear him gladly. The veteran church-goer who has become fastidious in the matter of sermons like his homely talks quite as well as those unfortunates to whom the language of the ordinary pulpit is strange and almost unmeaning. What is Mr. Moody's attraction? In these days when the churches are so thinly attended and when good preachers who are also earnest Christians are so often compelled to preach to half-empty pews it is worth while to try to find out what it is that makes Mr. Moody's preaching so acceptable to the masses. He is not an eloquent man as many people understand eloquence. His language is not polished, his periods are not rounded, his voice is not musical, his accent is far from being faultless, his appearance is not imposing, his action is not graceful, still with all his faults and in spite of every drawback, he charms and commands the attention of the great majority of every audience he addresses. No matter where he speaks, whether in England or Scotland or the United States or Canada, whether in the city or country, crowds flock to hear him and he makes a deep impression on his audiences. There must be some cause for this invariable success. A success too that does not diminish with time. As a speaker Mr. Moody is as powerful and effective now as he was fifteen years ago. He has found his way to the popular heart, and that way is as open to him now as ever it was. Many good people will say that it is useless to enquire into the causes of his success. They will tell you that he is a favored servant of the Lord appointed to do His work, and as long as he is faithful it is impossible for him to fail. We have nothing to say against this for indeed there is nothing to be said. But granting that he is all that they say he is, we know that there is no effect produced in these days without means. What are the means that Mr. Moody uses? In the first place it does not require a profound observer to see that he is thoroughly in earnest. He does none of his work in a formal perfunctory manner. If he is not sincere, if he is not filled with a desire to do his hearers good, he is an actor of consummate skill. When he is talking he completely forgets himself. There is not a single sign of self-consciousness about his manner or his language. His words seem to well up fresh from his heart, and he looks as if he were completely absorbed in his desire to convey his thoughts to his hearers. He is clearly a magnetic man; but is not his intense earnestness the cause of his magnetism? His magnetism seems akin to that of a person about to impart some momentous news, whether of joy or sorrow, whose very looks are electric, and who imparts a thrill to those whom he seeks to address before he opens his lips. The evangelist's earnestness is contagious, many catch it who are most unwilling to be impressed. This is how hundreds who go to mock remain and pray. Mr. Moody adapts his language to the feelings and the understanding of those whom he addresses. His simple, homely talk, coming from the heart goes to the heart. This is Nature's way. The mother does not talk to her child in studied phrases, nor does the lover address his sweetheart in flowing periods. The words that have made the deepest impression—words that have had the greatest influence—words that men and women remember most vividly, and which they can recall at any moment of their lives—have been simple words earnestly uttered. Fine phrases and carefully culled flowers of rhetoric may tickle the ear, but they seldom reach the heart or influence the conduct. Mr. Moody has learned this secret, and has profited by the knowledge. He uses in the pulpit and on the platform the language of the fireside, the street, and the market. Everyone, old or young, gentle or simple, educated or uneducated, feels, in his meetings, at home. He finds that he is addressed by a man who feels as he feels, who thinks as he thinks, and who talks in the language that he is used to. This is the advantage of simplicity of speech—it is understood by all and appreciated by all. The man of true culture admires it, and the uncultivated feel its force. Mr. Moody makes allowances for the weaknesses of his hearers. He knows that it is very hard for people generally to keep their attention fixed long upon one subject. They soon weary even of what they like. They have an instinctive dread of dullness, they hate to be bored. He, therefore, makes his services short and he exercises much ingenuity to keep them lively. He knows that nine people out of every ten are fond of music, and that ninety-nine out of every hundred like their music cheerful and stirring. So he gives his audiences plenty of music, and that, too, of a rousing kind. He seems bound that no one, let him be ever so drowsy, shall go to sleep at his meetings, and he takes the greatest pains to keep them wide awake. The consequence is that the attention of his hearers never flags. He puts them in a proper frame of mind to listen to what he says and he never loses his hold of them until he pronounces the benediction. We think that we have, humanly speaking, touched upon some of the secrets of Mr. Moody's extraordinary success. There may be back of these, as many believe, a Power which gives effect to his efforts to make the world better than he finds it. On that point, as becomes a secular journal, we are silent. But this we believe: if all teachers and reformers used the means that Mr. Moody uses with as much skill and judgment as he does, there would be far fewer complaints of failure than there are.

"Late last fall I was laid up in bed three days with a severe attack of diarrhœa and vomiting. Nothing benefited me until my neighbor, Mrs. Dunning, recommended Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and brought me a half bottle, which she had in her house. In three hours the vomiting was stopped, and I was able to sit up by night. I would not now think of using any other medicine." Columbus Hopkins, Hamilton, Ont. tu-th-sat-dw

AUCTION!
PROVINCIAL Government Lands,
—ON—
North Arm of Fraser River, and adjacent Lands, New Westminster District.
Tuesday, 23rd October,
AT 11 O'CLOCK, A. M.,

I have been instructed by the Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works to sell by Auction,
AT VANCOUVER, B. C.,
Several parcels of Fine Agricultural Lands, situate on and near the north arm of Fraser River, being sub-divisions of Lots 325, 326, 329, 330, 331, 332 to 339, 149, 150, 156, 175, 166, 155, 162, 163. The sub-divisions of these lots contain from 27 to 172 acres each; the location of these lots is shown on the present map of the District.

The Farms in the immediate vicinity of these Lots are considered the finest agricultural properties in British Columbia. Some of the lots front on the North Arm, and others are in the immediate vicinity of the same.

Steamers run daily from New Westminster and Vancouver, past these valuable properties.

ALSO,
Lots 628 to 670, and Lots 700 to 756,

All situate between the North Arm of Fraser River and Vancouver City. The North Arm road from Vancouver runs through these Lots, and there are other roads laid out that will give access to each of them. This property commences about 2½ miles south of Vancouver city and is bounded on the west by the C. P. Railway Land Grant, and is surveyed into Lots containing from 6 to 56 acres each, maps of which will shortly be ready for distribution.

All the Lands to be sold are well adapted for agricultural, dairy or orchard purposes; and on account of their close proximity to the markets of Vancouver and New Westminster cities, will be very desirable properties for families seeking a home or investment.

The C. P. Railway are now constructing a fine wagon road from Vadeover to the North Arm of Fraser River and Lulu Island. They are also surveying a Line of Railway through these properties with a view of connecting with the United States system of railways at Seattle.

These Lands may fairly be considered as the most valuable ever offered for sale by Auction in British Columbia.

GEO. BYRNES,

A LISTENER REPLIES.

To THE EDITOR:—I do not unhesitatingly accept all of Mr. Moody's confident statements, nor do I think his arguments at all times absolutely conclusive. He is even sometimes, it seems to me, guilty of what the logicians call non causa pro causa.

But I think your correspondent "Inquirer" must have listened to last night's discourse with little attention and to no purpose if he failed to hear the eloquent lecturer at least attempt to answer the questions which he propounds in this morning's issue of THE COLONIST.

The solemn and impressive reference to David and his wayward son Absalom was certainly an effort in this direction, as was also the illustration of the drunkard's shattered arm, which was not replaced by his subsequent conversion and life of righteousness. LISTENER.

A NEW ERA FOR VICTORIA.

To THE EDITOR:—The recent offer of £100, in other words, of five hundred dollars in purchase of books for our public library, if rightly turned to account, should be the starting point of a new era in our existence. This addition to the books we already possess, saved from the dissolution of the Mechanics' Institute, will give us a library that will furnish abundant reading matter for our citizens. I was much struck with the circumstance of Sir John Macdonald in a recent address to an assembly of young men placing so much stress upon their being a reading class, and of their capacity consequently to appreciate his observations. Unfortunately in our city amongst the many there is no taste for reading, and other pursuits occupy their disengaged time of a detrimental character. Our public library, with this splendid addition, when once started will furnish all the requirements for reading, intellectual improvement, and elevation of tastes.

But to make our public library thoroughly effective, and a grand success, we want a suitable building for it, and here is a splendid opportunity for some one of our public spirited citizens to distinguish himself, and to cause his name and eventually his memory to be honored, by making the city a present of such an edifice, in which event doubtless a suitable site for its erection would soon be found available.

Mr. Dunsmuir has already done so much for our city that it would be imposing upon good nature to ask him. But for our own credit's sake, when we move in this matter let be done effectively and well, and have for our public library an institution that we may regard with pride and satisfaction.

REFORMS REQUIRED.

To THE EDITOR:—I was much interested in reading your article under the above heading in Friday's issue of your paper, and, whilst agreeing with the majority of the ideas and suggestions, I should like, with your permission, to make a few remarks on the subject of streets and drains.

I quite agree with you that roads made by inexperienced persons must of necessity be found defective and also very expensive, in fact much more expensive than those made systematically and under practical supervision. Your suggestion is that an engineer be engaged to take charge of the streets and drains; but my opinion is that a thorough practical person, a man of experience—a man who has devoted his time to studying the science of road-making—would be far more preferable to an engineer whose personal knowledge of the work would be merely theoretical.

Then, again, it certainly does not require a person to be an engineer to efficiently carry out the duties of an inspector of nuisances. What is wanted for that office is a man endowed with an ordinary share of common sense, and who would do his duty honestly and straightforwardly, neither fearing the frowns nor courting the favors of anyone. He should be furnished with a digest of the sanitary laws and regulations for the city and be invested with power to act on them when necassary.

In making the above remarks I agree with you that sanitary reform in some shape or other is greatly needed, and unless some better system of road making is adopted, the streets of this city will for ever remain what they are at present—a disgrace to those having the control over them.

Let us hope that as soon as civic matters are again in working order the authorities will give the above subjects their serious consideration. W. P. A.

Victoria, 13th Oct., 1888.

THE LEISURE HOUR.

To THE EDITOR:—There cannot be a doubt but that the happiness of communities or individuals is largely dependent upon the manner in which the leisure hour is spent. In forming, therefore, an estimate of the condition of a community or of an individual it is not necessary to know what they do when employed, inasmuch as that always means about the same thing—merely involving more or less time or toil; but it will be of first importance to know what they do when not employed. It is the idle hour that tells the tale. The requirements and entertainments of that leisure hour—that leisure hour which so often stamps its character and leaves its impress—has never been sufficiently recognized—a neglect that has entailed ills innumerable and required the whole armory of the religious and moral world to be put into motion to counteract bad influences, and often-times when it has been too late. Some persons, happily, possess resources within themselves, and know how to turn that leisure hour to good account; others, unfortunately, are devoid of such resources, fall into bad habits, and come to grief.

In our city many a bright man with all the adaptations for usefulness and success in life, but having no resources to fall back upon in the idle hour has fallen a victim to the temptation of drink, and come to an inglorious end. We have at the present time a host of such men. Some of them pitiful spectacles, and sad to say, when any of these veterans of the Bacchanalian army die out, recruits spring up to fill the ranks and supply the vacancy. Intellectual pursuits for men with brains thus unfitted for mental exercise are of course quite out of the question. All that is required by them is more whisky, and more schooners of beer, to minister to their vitiated tastes. Now most of us hvae our besetting sin, but when that besetting sin means an inordinate desire for drink, it is well nigh incurable. The moral stamina to recuperate upon is wanting, but if there be no effectual cure, could there not have been timely prevention. To use a Shakespearean phrase "That is the question."

If philanthropists, humanitarians, and temperance advocates cannot find some means either by inducing a taste for reading, or some other device to supply the needs of the leisure hour before the mischief is done, it is to be feared their various nostrums afterwards will be too late. Seldom, if ever, has there been a city more full of cures and remedies for social disorder than our city of Victoria. Seldom one so devoid of organizations and institutions for prevention of such demoralization, as if by their absence it was intended to show the efficacies of Blue Ribbonism, grand temperance lectures and the pledge as cures when the trouble had taken place. W. K. B.

CHINESE RESPECT FOR THE BODY.

Some Curious Customs Practiced by the Celestials in Their Own Country.

The Pekin Gazette recently contained an imperial rescript severely censuring a number of officials concerned in the execution of a criminal who was sentenced to death by strangulation, but who, "by a stupid piece of reckless and unpardonable bungling," was decapitated instead.

Commenting on this incident, the North China Herald says that the Emperor only reflected Chinese sentiment in attaching great importance to the difference between the two, decapitation being regarded as a much more dishonorable death than strangulation.

The Chinese feel the utmost repugnance to any mutilation of the body, not on account of the pain or the fear of death, but because of the sentiment that it is a man's duty to keep in tact as far as he can, the body which his parents have bequeathed to him. It forms part of that system of filial piety which is the orthodox religion of China, and has had its share in producing the Chinese dislike of war and revolutions.

Patiently and uncomplainingly as most Chinese will go through a surgical operation, it is well known that they strongly object to amputation, and it is often difficult to induce them to submit to it. They invariably ask for the severed limb, which they either keep in a box, to be buried with the original owner on his death, or they eat it. This latter method has the countenance of antiquity; what is severed from the body by accident or necessity is returned to it.

A work which has been called the Chinese prose "Iliad" records of a certain hero, that when drawing out a stray arrow which entered his eye in battle, the eye came with the weapon; whereupon he swallowed the former with great sang froid, observing that father's flesh and mother's blood should not be thrown away.

Some commentators on the work say that as a temporary expedient this was quite allowable, and even commendable, but that the regular course would be to wrap up the eye and keep it until death.

Teeth are treated in much the same way. Milk teeth are regarded as a mere makeshift of nature, and therefore not possessed of the dignity of adult teeth. The latter are carefully kept when they come out, or they are ground to powder and swallowed in water, for they are part of the parent's bequest.

Another phase of this subject is the practice, so frequently commended by the Emperor, of making broth for a sick parent out of flesh cut from the body of the child. The efficacy of the practice is that it restores to the parent a portion of his own essence.

Viceroys are constantly begging for special rewards to be bestowed on children who have mutilated themselves for this purpose. The mother of a late Governor of Yunnan, who was then 87 years old, was commended not long since in these terms:

"She obtained a reputation for the filial piety she displayed towards her husband's parents, mutilating herself to mix her flesh with his medicine when her father-in-law was ill."

A few years ago the Viceroy of Szechuen reported a case in which a dutiful son, who was too poor to satisfy a sudden craving on the part of his sick mother for meat, cut a piece of flesh off his arm and made soup for her. He felt, the report says, no pain from the mutilation, and the wound healed at once.

THE AMERICAN WIFE.

An English Mother's Wise Decision.

Traveled English Dame (in London)—"My dear, these reports from the Young Ladies' College are very discouraging."

Lovely Daughter—"I know they must be, mother. The dean said my schooling was money thrown away; he added that there was no learn in me, and that I never had an idea on any subject whatever."

"I should judge so from these records; absolute failure everywhere. You did not succeed even in the cooking department."

"No, I spoiled everything I attempted and burnt my fingers and nearly set myself on fire. I'll never go near a kitchen so long as I live; I'll starve first."

"You can't even sew; you can't mend your own stockings."

"I know it."

"What is to become of you? Are you good for anything at all?"

"No, mother; nothing."

"Well, I'll just give up our London house and we'll emigrate to the United States. You are not fit for anything but to be an American wife."—Omaha World.

A WEDDING RING OF BAD OMEN.

The Tragic Events That Followed Its Use.

A tragic story of a forgotten wedding ring is told in the "Lives of the Lindseys."

When he should have been at church, Colin Lindsey, the young Earl of Balcarres, was quietly eating his breakfast in nightgown and slippers.

When reminded that Mauritia of Nassau was waiting for him at the altar, he hurried to church but forgot the ring. A friend present gave him one which he, without looking at it, placed on the bride's finger.

After the ceremony was over the countess glanced at her hand, and beheld a grinning death's head on her ring. She fainted away, and the omen made such an impression on her that on her recovery she declared that she was destined to die within a year, a presentiment that probably brought about its own fulfillment, for in a few months the careless Colin was a widower.

He Was a Sad Flatterer.

Husband (Tipsy; late home; wife fixing up her hair before the looking glass; her heart full of rancor; ready to give him a dreadful scolding)—"Why, dear, what are you doing?"

Wife (snappishly)—"Don't you see what I'm doing? Fixing up my hair."

H—"Well—hic—I'm glad to see you doing that."

W—"And where have——"

H—"I shay I'm glad to see you doing that. For you have the most beautiful hair I ever saw."

W—"Where were you——"

H—"I shay you have the most beautiful hair I ever saw. And it just matches your face. For you have the most beautiful face—hic—I ever saw—so there."

W. (smiling)—"Do you think my face beautiful?"

H. (putting his boots under the pillow)—"You are the most beautiful woman in the world."

W. (lovingly)—"You darling John, you are a sad flatterer. Let me unbutton your collar for you."—Boston Courier.

FLYING LIKE THE WIND.

The Story of an Awful Leap—Georgia's Greatest Equestrian Feat.

It was in the sixties. Mitchell's bridge across Mulberry creek was the tallest in Harris county. A swell in the creek had misplaced an arch and a dozen men had assembled to repair the damage. The flooring for twelve feet had been removed. It was twenty-five feet to the water beneath.

Suddenly the hammers ceased and the men listened intently to the approaching clatter of a horse's hoofs.

"It's Jess, by gammy," said one.

"He's splittin' the wind, too," said another.

"That little filly knows how to pick up her feet, and she don't study about it, neither," said number three.

"Dang my buttons!"

This was said just as the rider appeared in sight, presenting a picture of robust manhood, guiding with unerring hand the fleetest little mare in Western Georgia.

He was clad in a fine broadcloth suit, his feet in a pair of the best calf-skin boots, and they armed and ornamented with neat, small spurs.

On he came.

The men were lost in admiration and stood with mouth and eyes open, transfixed to the spot.

He neared the bridge.

As if by magic the crowd were awakened to the horrible death that awaited the man should he attempt to pass over the bridge.

"Stop! stop!" shouted the men.

"The floor's up!"

"You can't cross!"

The horse's hoofs struck the bridge.

"Head him off!"

"He'll be killed!"

"Stop his horse!"

And they all rushed to the middle of the bridge.

"Clear the track!" whooped the impetuous rider, and the way was cleared.

He reached the brink. The gallant mare paused—trembled. The men stood breathless. The rider planted himself firmly in the saddle, gathered the reins tighter and sank the spurs deep into the sides of the mare.

She squatted, leaped wildly into the air and landed safely beyond the awful gap.

With unslackening pace, and without a sound save the clattering of the horse's hoofs, both steed and rider disappeared over the hill, having surpassed anything of the kind in the history of Georgia.—Hamilton (Ga.) Journal.

A TURKISH DINNER.

Why One Should Accept a Pasha's Invitation To Dine.

By all means accept an invitation to dine with a Turkish Pasha.

I had the pleasure of taking a meal with the Governor of Drama, who is passing rich for a Turk, seeing that he rules over the plain where the chief tobacco farms are, and his opportunities for amassing wealth are many and varied.

Silence and expedition are the chief characteristics of a Turkish meal.

The table preparations are few, but the dishes are many; olives, caviare, cheese, etc., are dotted about, and perhaps as many as ten dishes are handed round in covered brazen dishes, consisting of rice or barley, meat or boiled fish, chickens seasoned with vegetables, roast lamb, beans, a species of rissole wrapped up in vine leaves, the inevitable pilaf and fruit; and, as wine is forbidden, an intoxicating substitute is found in liquors and brandy.

Each person has his piece of sheet by him, and his piece of unleavened bread, for the Turks love half-baked dough.

It will comfort the European to see every one wash his hands before his meal, for forks are unknown and each has his hand to dip his fingers into the savory morsel as it is handed to him.

During the whole of the feeding process scarcely four or five words will be uttered, and at the most your repast will last twenty minutes, but, then, afterwards, with the coffee and the hubble-bubble, conversation will flow freely.

To the Turk eating is a serious gastronomic exercise, which will not admit of any conversation being entered into during its progress.

SOMNAMBULISM EXTRAORDINARY.

What a Young Farmer Did in His Sleep.

A young Australian near Dochara, after an unusually hard day's work sheep shearing, went to sleep on the sitting-room couch after supper.

Soon he arose, walked out into the darkness, went through four gates, which he carefully closed, to the woodshed, and then hung up his coat and took down his sheep shears and sharpened them. Then he caught a sheep and had just finished shearing it when some of the household came with a lantern.

Then it turned out that he had been asleep all the time, and the light of the lantern awakened him.

The sheep was sheared as well as though it had been done in broad daylight.

Philosophy of Mother-in-Lawism.

It is rather curious that a fair young girl, full of healthful affection and sympathy and all that sort of thing, should grow up to be a tyrannizing old mother-in-law.

It does not seem natural, but if it weren't so would everybody have such a decided opinion about them? Is it that a woman when she gets married finds herself so domineered over by a man that her only revenge is to take it out of the man who marries her daughter? Are daughters after all only a kind of bait to catch a man that a mother-in-law can get even upon?—San Francisco Chronicle.

In a Bad Way.

Little Chicago Boy—"Kin ye help a poor, harmless, helpless boy?"

Kind Citizen—"I reckon so. Are you an orphan, sonny?"

Boy—"I'm wuss nor an orphan. Me fadder an' mudder is both divorced an' married agin', an' I don't know whose boy I am, an' am slowly forgettin' me own name."—Epoch.

Weary of Well-Doing.

An England street 6 year old miss, who has thus early evidently grown tired of working hard to be good, ended her little prayer thus the other night:

"Please, God, make me a good girl without my helping!"—St. Albans Messenger.

A Nice Distinction.

Very few people really believe in fortune tellers, but almost everybody is interested to know what the fortune tellers say.—Somerville Journal.

A Warning.

The modes of death's approaches are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the Throat and Lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly, and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and if allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing Consumption, and to the head causing Catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose you your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your Throat, Lungs or Nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boschee's German Syrup. It will give you immediate relief.

NOT A PIMPLE ON HIM NOW

Bad with Eczema. Hair all gone. Scalp covered with eruptions. Thought his hair would never grow. Cured by Cuticura Remedies. Hair splendid and not a pimple on him.

I cannot say enough in praise of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. My boy, when one year of age, was so bad with eczema that he lost all of his hair. His scalp was covered with eruptions, which the doctors said was scald head, and that his hair would never grow again. Despairing of a cure from physicians I began the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and, I am happy to say, with the most perfect success. His hair is now splendid, and there is not a pimple on him. I recommend the CUTICURA REMEDIES to mothers as the most speedy, economical, and sure cure for all skin diseases of infants and children, and feel that every mother who has an afflicted child will thank me for so doing.

MRS. M. E. WOODSUM, Norway, Me.

A Fever Sore Eight Years Cured.

I must extend to you the thanks of one of my customers, who has been cured, by using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, of an old sore, caused by a long spell of sickness or fever eight years ago. He was so bad he was fearful he would have to have his leg amputated, but is happy to say he is now entirely well—sound as a dollar. He requests me to use his name, which is H. H. CASON, merchant of this place. JOHN V. MINOR, Druggist, Gainsboro, Tenn.

Severe Scalp Disease Cured.

A few weeks ago my wife suffered very much from a cutaneous disease of the scalp, and received no relief from the various remedies she used until she tried CUTICURA. The disease promptly yielded to this treatment, and in a short while she was entirely well. There has been no return of the disease, and CUTICURA ranks No. 1 in our estimation for diseases of the skin.

C. P. R. STEAMSHIPS.

What Mr. Dodwell, the General Manager, Has to Say of the Non-calling at Victoria.

G. B. Dodwell, Shanghai, was a name on the register at the Driard that attracted the attention of a COLONIST reporter yesterday morning. Mr. Dodwell is the general manager of the Canadian Pacific China Steamship Co., and spent but a few hours in the city on his way to San Francisco where business in connection with the Chinese difficulty calls him. In conversation with a COLONIST scribe, Mr. Dodwell stated yesterday that the company has been doing everything in their power to arrange for the steamers of their line calling at Victoria, both inward and outward bound. The great difficulty is in the arrangement and storage of the Victoria cargo, which has to be taken on at five different places. If they had any means of knowing just what cargo was for Victoria they might arrange matters so that very little time would be lost in landing it, but at present there appears to be no means of reaching the desired result without sorting over the entire cargo at Yokohama. Owing to the keen rivalry of the 'Frisco boats, particularly in the silk carrying trade, a day's delay means a very serious loss to the company, and at present they cannot see their way clear to have their liners call at Victoria, although nothing will be left undone by which the desired arrangement can be made.

Mr. Dodwell looks upon the recent Chinese exclusion bill as simply an election dodge, but still a disgrace to the statesman of America, who might learn much from the people of the celestial empire in the science of government as well as politeness.

LOCAL AND PROVINCIAL.

The steamer Maude, Capt. Barry, was to have left for Massett some time during last night. Capt. John Irving goes north for the purpose of visiting the anthracite mine being opened up near Massett.

Mexico's Passengers.

The following Victoria passengers are on board the steamship Mexico: C. Harvey, S. E. Tucker, A. W. Townsend, P. Ferbrache and wife, O. E. Winslow, Stella Webster, Mrs. J. Bullen, Mrs. J. Crossen, Mrs. W. H. Walsh.

Outgoing Passengers.

The following passengers left for San Francisco by the Umatilla to-day: Mrs. L. Marbeuf and son, George E. Hughes, Arthur W. Moore, James Fitzgerald, E. Lustig, W. L. Roberts, J. Bunster, Geo. Clough, R. G. Cunningham, G. D. Dodwell, and 12 steerage passengers.

Police Notes.

Two charges of fast driving over Rock Bay Bridge came up in the police court yesterday morning, and were remanded until Monday.

Angus McLellan, for using insulting language, was fined $5.

R. Copeland, brought up on remand on a charge of lareeny, was again remanded till Monday.

Hoodlums About.

Two large panes of glass were broken Friday night, one in the office door of Mr. W. K. Bull, and the other in the window of the office of Mr. Mone in Trounce alley, involving a loss of some $3 for repairs. The mischief was apparently done with a stick and not from stone throwing. It is understood the police have a clue to the offenders.

The Sound Steamers.

The steamer North Pacific has been taken from Tacoma to Seattle, where her repairs will be completed. When finished, she will be placed on the Victoria route, performing the service with the Olympian. It is stated the Potter will then be withdrawn and sent back to the Columbia river, it being claimed she is too expensive a boat to run on this route.

A Farewell Banquet.

About twenty-five guests sat down last evening to a farewell dinner given Sir William Wiseman, Bart., Commander of H.M.S. Caroline, at the Driard, by Edgar Marvin, jr. The table was a mass of costly flowers, and was lighted with fairy lights, the entire effect being wonderfully pretty and æsthetic in the extreme. The bill of fare embraced every delicacy, and reflected high credit upon the chef. The substantials having been disposed of, an hour or so was spent in toast, song, and sentiment, and the party broke up wishing Sir William the best of good luck wherever he may go.

Death of Mr. Thos. Lett Stahlschmidt.

The death of the above named gentleman took place in London on the 19th September. The late Mr. Stahlschmidt arrived in this country in the early sixties and was actively engaged in commercial pursuits for many years, finally taking up his residence in England in 1876, where he continued his business connections with the province for some years subsequently. The deceased gentleman formerly held the office of agent-general for British Columbia in London, and the announcement of his death at the age of 55 will be received with much regret by our poineers throughout the province, where he was long and favorably known.

A Jail Bird's Ride.

Edward Hodges, who broke jail while serving out a term for vagrancy a short time ago, was spotted by Sergt. Shepherd across James Bay yesterday afternoon. Hodges, who was seated on a horse, and the Sergeant addressed him, stating that there was a warrant out for him. Hodges replied that that was all right, he intended giving himself up in a couple of days. The Sergeant recommended that he do so at once, during the conversation walking toward Hodges. The latter remarked that he would see him again, and put the spurs to his horse before the Sergeant could seize the bridle. The rider dashed over James Bay bridge and galloped madly through Government street, disappearing in the direction of Saanich. When Edward is captured by the police he will have another charge to answer to —that of "driving over James Bay Bridge at a pace faster than a walk, contrary to the city by-law, etc."

A Shoplifter Captured.

A semi-intoxicated individual, giving his name as George Kenny, walked into Isaac & Co.'s Indian Bazaar on Johnson street at about one o'clock yesterday afternoon, and on the pretence of wishing to buy something was allowed to go through the store. Mr. Isaacs was not in, and Mr Hart, his father-in-law, was waiting on another customer. Kenny watched his chance and when Mr. Hart's back was turned, rolled up a couple of pair of pants and started for the door. Mr. Hart was on the lookout for him, however, and catching him before he reached the street, compelled him to restore the goods before he was allowed to depart. A short time later Chief of Police Bloomfield received information in regard to the suspicious stranger and despatched Officer Redgrave to hunt him up. The officer succeeded in locating his man walking down Government street, and as he was passing H. Mansell's shoe store saw him stop and possess himself of a pair of rubber boots. The thief was at once arrested with stolen goods in his hands, and his case will be disposed of in the police court to-morrow morning.

Dr. Aberigh-Mackay.

A biographical sketch in the New York Churchman, by the Rev. G. Monroe Royce, states that Dr. Aberigh-Mackay came to New York in 1841, took Holy Orders in 1845, was presented to the incumbency of St. John's, Inverness, Scotland, in 1848, and nominated by Bishop Low in 1850 to be his coadjutor and successor in the see of Moray and Ross. The College of Bishops, however, declined to confirm the nomination; the nominee had only just attained the canonical age, and had recently come out from Presbyterianism. In 1857 the incumbent of St. John's went to India as a chaplain in H. M.'s service on the Bengal establishment, from which he retired with pension in 1875, having done duty in the field from the battle of Cawnpore to the siege and capture of Lucknow, where he officiated to Lord Clyde and the staff, and obtained the Queen's medal and clasp, with the commendation of Lord Canning and the Bishop of Calcutta, followed by promotion for "eminent services during the mutiny." In 1878, Dr. Aberigh-Mackay was presented by the patrons of the Marbeuf Church, in Paris, where he has had his residence during the last ten years. Since November he has been pleading in the United States for the "Old Catholics" of France. His brother, Mr. George Mackay, of Glenglov or Loch Lochy, having come out to Vancouver and Victoria, and determined to remain for some time. The reverend doctor arrived from New York a few days ago to see with his own eyes a region described as "an earthly Paradise." He informed our representative that the result of his explorations and inquiries confirms thus far what he had heard.

Dr. Aberigh-Mackay is to preach in Bishop Hills' Cathedral at eleven to-day. He is the only clergyman in the English "Clergy List" who was ordained Deacon and Priest by a bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States. He has returned to America after an absence of forty years under Anglican bishops.

Sudden Death.

On Wednesday morning Henry Pembleton Smith, proprietor of the Newcastle hotel, Comox road, was found dead in his bed, apparently as though he had expired in his sleep, for even in death he appeared quite natural and as if he was asleep. He retired to bed about 2:30 a. m., and five hours afterwards he was found dead. The deceased was nearly 40 years of age, single, and a native of St. Andrew's, Manitoba.

The Juveniles' Farewell.

Saturday's matinee and evening performances completed the engagement of the Hudson-Eckert Opera Company. In the afternoon the well-worn but still popular "Pinafore" was produced in excellent fashion, and in the evening "Chimes of Normandy" was repeated. All acquitted themselves creditably, although special mention must be made of Miss Cleveland who was equally at home as "Josephine" or "Serpolette," and Harry Wise, who, in his original creation of Gaspard the miser, showed himself possessed of rare ability as a tragedian. The company leave Victoria with a splendid record and may rely on having crowded houses whenever they visit the Queen City again.

Opening New Coal Mines.

It is the intention of Messrs. R. Dunsmuir & Sons, of the Wellington Collieries, to at once open the coal seam on the Sabiston & Horne property. A prospect shaft was sunk, and a level run for a couple of hundred yards, out of which several hundred tons of a superior quality of coal were obtained. It is the intention of Messrs. D. & S. to pump the water out of the present shaft, and then run the level out to daylight. Carpenters will at once commence the erection of houses for the workmen, and in a few days they expect to have the water out of the shaft and drift. This property is over four hundred acres in extent, and is situated between the property of the Vancouver Coal Company and the East Wellington Coal Company. It is also intimated that Messrs. Dunsmuir & Sons may re-open the Alexandria Mine, in Cranberry district, on the line of the E. & N. Railway.

"C" Battery Removal.

At the request of the majority of the aldermen, Mayor Grant postponed the meeting called for last evening to discuss the proposed removal of "C" Battery. The telegram printed from Sir A. P. Caron and from our correspondent would seem to definitely decide the question. There is no doubt that a strenuous effort was made to secure the removal of the battery to Vancouver. Happily, it has been unsuccessful, and though it may not now be necessary to protest and remonstrate, the fact that Victoria's citizens were prepared to resent the shabby treatment intended will have its due effect. As it is, we have rather to thank the Imperial Government than the Federal for settlement of the point. A Vancouver newspaper jocosely remarks that if we don't take care they will tow Esquimalt itself to Vancouver. If the feat was possible, we have no doubt it would be attempted.

MOODY AT THE RINK.

"The Son of Man Came to Seek and to Save the Lost."

An immense audience, numbering almost two thousand; grand, soul-inspiring music and a sermon replete with startling truths, made the Saturday night service in the roller rink one long to be remembered by all who came to listen to the great evangelist, Dwight L. Moody, last evening.

The service was opened with the hymns "Jesus is Calling," "There Shall be Showers of Blessing," and "He is Abundantly Able to Save," after which Rev. Donald Fraser offered up an earnest appeal for the Divine blessing on the evening's meeting. "Not all the Blood of Beasts on Jewish Altars Slain," was sung heartily by the immense congregation standing. Mr. Edward Studd led in prayer and the choir sang "Now are we the Sons of God," the sweet words and melody ringing clear and strong through the immense building.

The thirty-fourth chapter of the Prophecy of Ezekiel was chosen by Mr. Moody as his first bible lesson, which was followed by the singing of "Sinners, Jesus will Receive," by choir and congregation. The season of silent prayer, the earnest petition offered by Rev. Mr. Rugg, and "Let the Saviour in," by the choir concluded the opening portion of the service.

You will find my text in the 19th chapter of Luke, the 10th verse, said Mr. Moody. I always love this text, because in it Christ tells just what He came to do upon this world. Notice in it, Christ calls himself by the lowest of all his titles, "the Son of man." "The Son of man has come to seek and to save that which was lost." He always takes the place of the seeker. When Adam fell, God came down to the Garden of Eden to seek him, and from the time He sought for Adam He has been seeking for lost men. Man never would come to God, unless God first came to Man. If a shepherd loses one of his flock, it is not the sheep that hunts for the shepherd, it is the shepherd that looks over hill and dale until he finds the lost one, and then it is the shepherd that rejoices, not the sheep. These parables are to teach us that God takes the place of the seeker always. The great difficulty is to convince the people of their lost condition. Too many men think because they don't beat their wives, get drunk, or misconduct themselves to win the censure of public opinion, they are not lost. What is it to be lost? To be out of the way, out of God's way. I like to go all around a text and get all its surroundings, It is like a diamond set around with pearls.

The speaker narrating many of the wonderful miracles performed by Jesus when on the earth told of the saving power that the Master never refused to use for the good of man. Zaccheus did not come to the Saviour without the Saviour seeking him. He saw Zaccheus in the tree and said to him, "Come down, for to-day I must abide at thy house." And when Zaccheus started to follow the Master, he showed that his life was changed. He made restitution to all that he had wronged in any way. If there's a man or woman who will acknowledge that they need the Saviour, I will prove to them that He is waiting to save. When a man is ready to acknowledge that he is a sinner, God will have mercy upon him. He came to seek and to save that which was lost. He can reach far down into the lowest depths, and lift a poor, vile, lost sinner and place him on the very throne of God. Is there not someone who wishes to turn from their sins to-night? I bring good news. Jesus came to seek and to save. There is no man so steeped in sin, that the grace of God cannot save him. The son of man came to seek and to save the lost.

On the conclusion of the address, one after another in the audience rose to request the prayers of God's people. Mr. Moody the offered up an eloquent appeal for the lost, an appeal to the Master to strike conviction to every heart.

"Just as I am, without one plea," was sung by everyone standing and the immense audience was dismissed with the benediction.

THE AGE OF MIRACLES.

A "Colonist" Reporter Visits the Deaf and Dumb School and Sees Many Things that Surprise Him—Teaching the Dumb to Talk and the Deaf to Hear—One of the Most Worthy Institutions in the Province.

"British Columbia School for Deaf Mutes and the Blind" was the legend which attracted the attention of a COLONIST reporter as he was walking slowly down Chatham street yesterday afternoon. Accustomed to associate schools of this description in his mind with asylums and similar institutions, he was surprised to note that the school appeared to be nothing else than a cheerful, comfortable residence. The gate stood invitingly open and having a leisure hour at his disposal the scribe passed up the walk and knocked at the door. It was almost immediately opened by the principal and founder of the school, Mr. Ashcroft, whose long experience in the education of those unfortunate in being denied the blessings of hearing, speech or sight in the well-known McKay Institute of Montreal, eminently fits him for the responsible and arduous duties of his position.

The British Columbia school is not a provincial institution, as it should be. Nearly every other province of the Dominion and every state in our neighboring republic has acted in advance of British Columbia in providing for the education of those within its borders to whom nature has withheld the blessings of sight, hearing and speech. Founded and maintained by private means principally for the benefit of the twenty or more in British Columbia, who need the instructions which can only be given in a school of this kind, it is one of our most deserving charitable institutions.

Mr. Ashcroft has associated with him in his noble work, his sister, a lady of rare culture and kindness, who does much to help, in many other ways than as a teacher, the pupils under her care.

The school building is divided into class rooms, dining rooms, dormitories, and kitchens, and throughout is neat, clean and cheerful as could well be imagined. A spacious playground also tends to increase the happiness of the pupils.

In the class room, a most remarkable difference is observed between it and the ordinary school room. The scholars, only four in number at present, seem to delight in acquiring knowledge, and triumph in bridging over the difficulties which nature has placed across their path. Always willing to learn, and evincing wonderful ingenuity is grasping the meaning which their instructor wishes to convey, they are very different, and in many ways more intelligent and painstaking, than the pupils in our public schools.

A BRIEF SKETCH

of the school career of a pupil will give an idea of the nature of the work accomplished and of the methods employed in imparting instruction. A child enters school at the age of 7, and never having heard a sound, of course has no conception of words and their meanings; in fact the only language that he has consists of a few signs necessary to express his most simple wants. The first few weeks will be devoted to teaching him to write the letters of the alphabet and to associate them with the manual signs. After the letters have been mastered, he begins to combine them into words, by writing the names of familiar objects and learning to recognize each object by its name. In a short time he will thus be able to write the names of things, to spell them by means of the manual alphabet, and to make the sign representing them. Then he learns the qualities of things (adjective) and in course of time such words as good, bad, large, small, sweet, sour, etc., are readily understood. A few verbs representing well-known actions, added to the foregoing, will enable him to write simple sentences and when this stage of advancement is reached his first year's work will have come to an end. A little arithmetic, too, will have been acquired and the numbers from 1 to 10 will be known.

During the second year he goes on getting familiar with the other parts of speech and also extends his vocabulary in those already acquired. His knowledge of the sign language has increased; indeed, his conversational and perceptive powers by signs (his natural language) has outstripped his progress in other directions, and by their means his religious instruction and moral training may be gone on with long before he is able to understand readily or to express himself fluently by written language.

At the end of four years he will be able to take up such studies as history, geography, grammar, etc., and when this degree of proficiency is attained, it will readily be perceived that he has within his grasp the means of becoming well acquainted with the events taking place in the world around him, and the means also of ready communication with his more fortunate fellows.

ARTICULATION AND LIP READING.

There are some instructors of the deaf and dumb who hold that the "Oral method" should alone be used in teaching and that as a result the deaf would use spoken language and discard signs altogether. All the institutions in America, with but two exceptions, however, prefer what is known as the "combined method," which admits of using whatever is best of all known systems. In accordance with this view such pupils as show an aptitude for acquiring speech are given instruction by the "Oral method," and it is found that a fair percentage may not only be taught to speak, but also to read the lips when spoken to. It requires skill and patience on the part of the teacher to teach articulation. The elementary sounds are first taught, and these are associated with the letters of the alphabet, which, with the help of diacritical marks, recall them to the memory of the pupil when seen combined in words. Another method, called "Bell's Method of Visible Speech," associates the sounds with curious looking symbols, which represent the position of the vocal organs in uttering sounds, and as each symbol represents a distinct sound, and not two or three, as some of the letters of the alphabet do, it has much to recommend it, especially until the sounds are thoroughly mastered, and the ability to combine them into words attained. The latter system is the one in use in the British Columbia School for the Deaf.

So much for the intellectual and moral training of the pupils, but no school is now considered complete unless training in some useful handicraft is included in its regular course. Nearly all the schools throughout the States and Canada have workshops attached to them, wherein the boys before leaving may acquire a good knowledge of some trade which will enable them to be self-supporting members of society. Carpentering, cabinet-making, tailoring, shoemaking, printing, etc., are all successfully taught.

The method adopted in teaching the dumb to speak—a part of the work of the school—is interesting in the extreme. Little Flora Cherdon, who entered the Victoria School at its opening on September 12th, is making very rapid progress. Quickly mastering all her studies it is probable that she will in a few years be able to speak intelligently to anyone, although, poor little one, she can never hear her own voice.

TEACHING ARTICULATION.

To get the value of the letter p, as in the word psalm, the lips are closed. Open them, at the same time emit the breath forcibly, and it is accomplished. Get the child to imitate. His first attempts will be far from satisfactory. He may not emit the breath or he may put voice into his efforts. Place his hand near your lips and let him feel the force of the breath being expelled. If this is not successful, he may see you puff a piece of paper off the hand or blow out a candle, and when he attempts the same thing he will probably have mastered the first element, which, with repeated practice, and its association with a symbol, will affix it in his memory.

The next sound in that same word is a. The mouth is opened to its full extent. The child will imitate that readily enough; but how will you get him to know that he is to make a sound at the same time? Take his hand, place it upon your chest or throat, and he will feel the vibrations which the sound makes. Let him feel his own throat or chest and he will soon learn to know when he is or is not making a sound. The next sound of the word is m, which is made with the lips closed and the sound passing through the nose. Place the finger on the side of the nose and feel the vibrations of sound passing through it. The child will feel it and endeavor to imitate.

Now that he has made the sounds separately, the next effort is to get him to combine them and pronounce the word.

Only three of the thirty-six elementary sounds are given, but they will serve to illustrate the amount of ingenuity required to get a deaf child to utter them.

Every branch of useful learning can in time be imparted, and those who have made the instruction of the deaf and dumb their life work cannot be held too high in the estimation of the community. It is to be hoped that ere long the government may see its way clear to further the British Columbia school. It is a credit to the province, to its whole-hearted and gentlemanly principal, and to the Queen City of the West.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

THE FLEMING CUP.

The competition for this cup, presented many years ago by the late Capt. Fleming, of Fraser river fame, took place simultaneously yesterday afternoon at New Westminster and Victoria, ranges 300 and 600 yards, seven shots at each. Owing to the unfavorable state of the weather here, our local competitors were not as numerous as on former occasions. Nevertheless, some very fair scores were made. Bombr. Winsby, the present holder of the cup, led the home scores with 41 points, Sergt. Newbury following second with 37. Advices from New Westminster announce the top score at that place as 46 points, made by Corp. Turnbull, of the Rifles. The cup, therefore, passes to New Westminster, to be held by Corp. Turnbull for the ensuing year.

THE ROAD SCULLERS—GAUDAUR WINS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The road-sculling contest at Madison square Garden closed to-night. There was a large attendance and great enthusiasm as the various oarsmen completed their work. Following is the final score at 12 midnight: Gaudaur, 465 miles 1 lap; Ross, 462m. 2 laps; Plaisted 455m. 2 laps; McKay, 431m. 1 lap; Bubear, 391m. 2 laps; Conley, 364m. 4 laps; Hamm, 375m.; Lee, 307m. 3 laps; East, 182m. 7 laps. Gaudaur wins the $1,500 prize; Ross, 2d, $1,200; Plaisted, 3d, $900. Plaisted also won the extra $250 for the greatest number of miles to night.

TEEMER AND O'CONNOR—A ROW.

The match race between Teemer and O'Connor, which was to commence at 8:30 o'clock, did not come off, as Teemer refused to go on the track. O'Connor then rowed over the twenty-five miles, winning the $500 by default. During an altercation while Plummer was urging Teemer to go on the course, Lee interfered and was kicked in the stomach by Teemer. Lee retaliated by striking Teemer three stinging blows, knocking him down. Friends then interfered and the two were separated. Manager McConrad on hearing of the row dispatched a message to the Astor House, where Teemer is stopping, saying he would not be answerable for any bills contracted by Teemer after ten o'clock to-night. McKay gets $600, Bubear $350, and Conley $300.
